

Lapostolle

San José, Valle de Apalta, Chile

Lapostolle was founded in 1994 by Alexandra Marnier Lapostolle and husband Cyril de Bournet upon their discovery of a unique Clos in the Apalta Valley sheltering 100 year-old pre-phylloxera vines. They quickly realized its potential for producing world-class wines. The Marnier-Lapostolle family has been recognized for fine wines and liqueurs since the early 19th century.

In establishing her family's legacy in the New World, Alexandra brought generations of French winemaking tradition and expertise to the rugged landscape of the Colchagua Valley. Today Charles de Bournet, seventh generation, leads the winery in its newest chapter of innovation, punctuated by the official recognition of the Apalta DO in 2018. Together with Andrea León, Technical Director & Winemaker, they continue to craft wines that honor the winery credo: French in essence, Chilean by birth.

THE WINEMAKER

Jacques Begarie left France in 2004 to work exclusively with Clos Apalta. He shares the same enthusiasm, the same passion and the same collaboration with the family. Biodynamics is more a route for him than a goal. Thanks to its strong involvement, and that of its teams, Clos Apalta obtained 100% certification by Ceres (Germany) and Demeter (Germany); and, for the first time, a South American wine was in Wine Spectator's Top 100 (Clos Apalta 2005).
